Special Evening for Special Volunteers

“Volunteers are not paid—not because they are worthless, but because they are priceless.”

Bergen County- Tickets are still available for “Celebrate Volunteers”, a festive, fun and non-competitive volunteer recognition event, hosted by the Volunteer Center of Bergen County. On Wednesday, April 9, 2008, the men, women and youth who give of themselves to better the community will be honored at a dessert reception at the Bergen County Academies Auditorium, located on River Street in Hackensack, beginning at 6:30 pm., with an inspirational program to follow at 7:15 pm.

Non-profit and government agencies, including libraries, hospitals, senior centers, schools, religious organizations and municipalities, are invited to bring up to 12 volunteers to whom they want to give a public pat on the back.

“This event is a great way for organizations to honor their volunteers during National Volunteer Month,” explains Janet Sharma, Executive Director of the Volunteer Center. “There are no winners or losers, so this is a true community-wide celebration.”

Brenda Blackmon, popular news anchor for My 9 News will serve as Master of Ceremonies. Ms. Blackmon has been a part of the Celebrate Volunteers Recognition evening since 1996 , helping to call attention to the many ways that volunteers enhance the community. The evening will include an inspiring photomontage of volunteers from local agencies performing vital community work.

Entertainment will be provided by the Hackensack High School Chorus under the direction of John Zisa, who was a top competitor on television’s “American Idol” in 2005.

Every volunteer will receive a special gift and certificate of commendation, and will be individually recognized during the program. Reservations are on a first come, first served basis, and can be obtained by calling (201) 489-9454 or reserving online at www.bergenvolunteers.org..

The cost is $10.00 per person.

“Celebrate Volunteers” is sponsored by (201) Magazine, Bergen County’s United Way, Lakeland Bank and Sony Electronics.

The mission of the Volunteer Center of Bergen County is to strengthen the community by connecting people with opportunities to serve, operating model volunteer programs, building capacity for effective volunteering, and participating in strategic partnerships that meet community needs.
